

Celebrating 10 Years of Pollinator Conservation

With Guest Speaker Ed Spevak, Ph.D., Director, Saint Louis Zoo WildCare Institute Center for Native Pollinator Conservation

“Bee” part of the Saint Louis Zoo’s 10th annual Pollinator Dinner to celebrate National Pollinator Week (June 18-24)! This year is a celebration of a decade of pollinator conservation with the Zoo.

June 19, 2018

6-9 p.m.

Before dinner, you can visit with our conservation partners and learn how you can help pollinators. You also can take part in a honey tasting, try some honey-flavored beverages, and take some seeds and plants home as a thank you.

Savor a delicious pollinator-themed dinner celebrating the best of the last 10 years, sip mead and enjoy a presentation by Dr. Spevak. His presentation will focus on the local, national and international pollinator conservation efforts of the Zoo and its partners.

Part of the proceeds support the Center for Native Pollinator Conservation.

$50 adult/$25 child (2-12 years)

The Living World at the Saint Louis Zoo

Advance registration required by June 8:

stlzoo.org or (314) 646-4897

